

Do Parents Matter?: Why Japanese Babies Sleep Soundly, Mexican Siblings Don t Fight, and American Families Should Just Relax (Hardback)

By Robert A. Levine, Sarah LeVine

The Perseus Books Group, United States, 2016. Hardback. Book Condition: New. 210 x 140 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. American parents drive themselves crazy trying to raise perfect children. There is always another news article or scientific finding proclaiming the importance of some factor or other, but it s easy to miss the bigger picture: that parents can only affect their children so much. In their decades-long study of global parenting styles, Harvard anthropologists (and grandparents themselves) Robert A. LeVine and Sarah LeVine reveal how culture may affect children more than parents do. Japanese children co-sleep with their parents well into grade school, while women of the Hausa tribe avoid verbal and eye contact with their infants, and yet, they are as likely as any of us to raise happy, well-adjusted children. The LeVines fascinating global survey suggests we embrace our limitations as parents, instead of exhausting ourselves by constantly trying to fix them. Do Parents Matter? is likely the deepest and broadest survey of its kind, with profound lessons for the way we think about our families.
