Hughes, Boston City Hospital, class of 82, President of the Boston Society of Red Cross, in charge. TALENT. TEN TRABNED NURSES READY TO ANSWER CALLS OF THE NEEDY. IN the introduction of the system the I first thing to be looked out for was a home for the women who are to devote time, energy, and skill in alleviating the condition of the suffering ones among the poor. The property, 321 North Paca street, was rented, and the handsome three-storied building has been elegantly furnished as a home for tKe corps of nurses who will be engaged in this laudable charity. The objects of the association will be to furnish nurses to any needy poor without charge. It goes further, however, and will furnish nurses to any one who requires the aid of trained attendants in case of sickness, and though no charge will be made, those who are able to pay can make remuneration by voluntary contributions. Nothing will be demanded. The charity is to be non-sectarian in every respect, both from a medical as well as a religious standpoint. The nurses will obey the instructions of the physician in charge of the case, without regard to the school of practice to which he belongs. Under the system a district nurse is required to have...
