The moth lays its eggs on apple and pear trees early in summer in the blossomend of the fruit, and the larva hatches in a few days, burrowing into the core. It matures in three weeks, when the apple drops to the ground and the larva transforms in a thin cocoon in crevices in bark, etc. , and in a few days another brood of moths appear, though most of them remain in their cocoons through the winter as lame, where we have found them under the loosened bark early in May. This formidable pest may be partially destroyed by gathering wind-falls, though the larva often deserts the worm-eaten apple before it falls. The best remedy is that suggested by Dr. Trimble, who binds bands of hay about the trees from July...
